Put Your 'Sole' into the Bunker Shot

The bottom of your sand wedge plays a critical role in bunker shots. As the renovation project rolls on a Snee Farm Country Club, it might be helpful to understand-say it with me- "the role of the sole".

Sole seems to work for the theme of this article, but I like to refer to the bottom of the club as the bounce (my favorite term is actually 'the denter'). The less the bounce, the more it will dig into the sand... the more the bounce, the more it will tend to compress the sand and slide through the sand.

The renovated bunkers will start off pretty soft. Expect the sand to be fluffy. When you hit the new sand, the club will want to 'sink' into the sand. If your technique is not correct, most of the energy will be absorbed directly into the sand and the ball will not fly far...

Back to playing with soul... I mean 'sole'. If you open the club face, or introduce the bounce (bottom) of the club to the sand, you will have a much better chance of moving the club through the sand. The bounce acts as a 'denter', which means it compresses the sand it hits and rather than cutting through it, the club will slide forward under and past the ball moving the sand and the ball much further out of the bunker. The 2 keys?

- 1. Use the denter, AKA bounce, AKA sole
- 2. Finish your swing! It's critical to not hit at the sand, but rather swing through the sand into a fully rotated finish. The finish is what will pull the club through the sand!

How about the older bunkers? They are often firm. The sand is tight and heavy. NO PROBLEM! We need less sole (bounce) on these shots. You want the leading edge to cut into the sand as you rotate through the ball. You'll take less sand, which means you need less energy. Never decelerate!!! But simply make a smaller swing than you would in softer sand. You've got this. Try a few in our practice bunkers until it seeps into your soul (sorry, couldn't resist).

Now go PLAY GOLF! Stop THINKING golf swing!!!

Dear Members-

As we've completed our first eight weeks at Snee Farm, we'd like to make you aware of a few changes. We have:

- remodeled the clubhouse
  - had the refuse moved from behind the courts
  - purchased an enhanced software system to simplify the court reservation process
  - updated the bathrooms
  - done considerable landscaping
  - secured a world-class coaching staff
  - developed a new and exciting calendar of social events and adult programs
  - begun working to revitalize the clay courts and to resurface the hard courts
- added a new junior academy with some of the top players in the country

Whew!

So, what's next? First, let us say that we've enjoyed meeting many of you and we're grateful that you've given us time to make these club enhancements. In hopes of restoring Snee Farm's Tennis Club to its place as the best location for tennis in all of Charleston, we've listened hard to your suggestions. We've heard the call for more members and more league teams. We've heard the pleas for more social events and adult classes. We've even heard a request for a toilet seat heater - our favorite!

Now that the club is in a more attractive state, we're about to initiate a membership drive. Our goal is to bring new members into the club so we can cater to all of the current members who cannot find enough people to play on their league teams. Moreover, we'd like to host some exciting and well-attended social events. Everyone's old favorite, Dewey Caulder is back at the club, and he's already heating up his ovens.

As we embark on the next eight weeks, please come say hello, and in the next few weeks, keep your eyes out for a link to a downloadable phone app which will provide detailed information about the tennis club. Very shortly, we'll also be sending out summer camp information.

Until then, we'd love to see the courts full and tennis players enjoying themselves.

Best,
Mike and Craig
